Mrs. Giles Cited For Work With Children

For sheltering and rearing 40 retarded abandoned and needy children in her home, Mrs. Arnette Giles of Pearllington has been named Citationist in the 1971 National Volunteer Awards competition sponsored by the National Center for Voluntary Action.

Married to Rev. Charles Giles for more than fifty years, Mrs. Giles has provided all of her "adopted" children with the educational opportunities she did not have. She received only three years of formal schooling, but determination and a love of learning enabled her to pass her high school equivalency test at the age of 68 "with flying colors."

When Hancock County opened its first school for retarded children which is now entirely supported by the United Fund, Mrs. Giles was selected as a teacher's aid. She traveled 100 miles daily, transporting as many as eleven children in her own car.

Many of the children brought to her care and tagged as "retarded" have grown to productive and respected positions in the adult world. At the present time, the Giles shelter seven children, four of whom are retarded. The youngest is an abandoned deaf child.

She firmly believes that retarded children can be helped with care and love. "Make them feel important," she instructs. "They are, because they are God's special children."

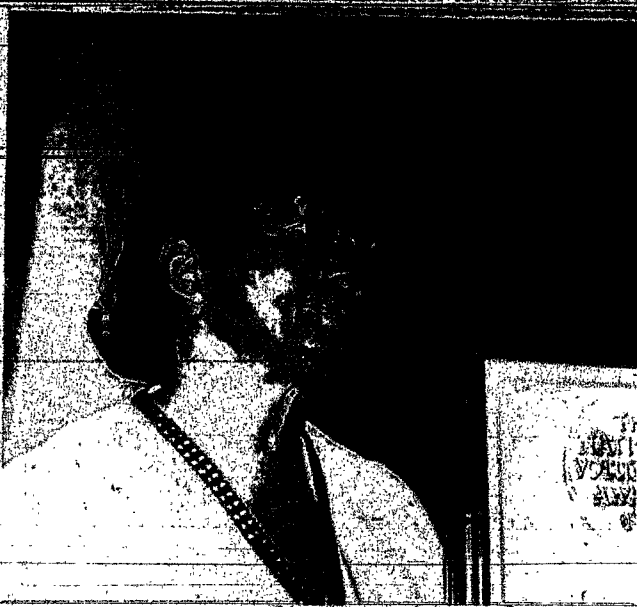

The National Volunteer Awards, formerly known as the Lane Bryant Volunteer Awards, were established in 1948 to bring attention to "unsung volunteer heroes." The program has been administered by the National Center for Voluntary Action and exists to generate new responses to America's pressing needs through greater utilization, coordination and recognition of volunteers.

Formed in February 1970, the National Center is a private, non-profit organization and the hub of a growing network of local Voluntary Action Centers. NCVA also runs the nation's most comprehensive clearinghouse of data on volunteer activities, as well as volunteer campaigns to meet critical national needs.

This year's awards program, the first under NCVA, drew the largest number of nominees in its history. From these, 119 Citationists have been selected. Preliminary screening was performed by a faculty panel from C.W. Post College of Long Island University. Each Citationist is now a candidate for one of two $5,000 first-place awards.

The Citationists' contributions reflect a trend toward growing citizen involvement in community problem-solving and aid to the handicapped and disadvantaged.

Final selection of 1971 winners will be made by a panel of five judges: H.I. Romney, chairman of the board, AT&T Company; Charles Evers, mayor, Fayette, Mississippi; Walter Hickel, former Secretary of the Interior and former governor of Alaska; Alvin Toffler, author, "Future Shock"; and Mrs. Jacqueline G. Wexler, president, Hunter College of the City of New York. The top awards will be presented in February 1972 at a banquet in Washington, D.C.

MRS. ARNETTE Giles of Pearllington has received a citation from the National Volunteer Award Program for her work with retarded children.

Resident Wants Details Of Beach Road Repairs

BY Adrees Shortle
Echo Staff Writer

A beach front property owner asked county supervisors Monday to publish in the Sea Coast Echo specific details of work proposed under the beach road repair project.

Mrs. O. W. Delph stated that although she and a number of beach front property owners had signed easement rights for the renovation of the damaged road, they still have not been apprised of the exact extent and nature of work to be accomplished.

Mrs. Delph said, "I signed the easement but I am still not aware of exactly what will be done on my property. Will you perhaps fill up a hole here, then dig a deeper one in another spot? I think it should be published in detail in the city's official newspaper, the Echo."

Mrs. Delph also expressed concern over what property owners' rights would be regarding construction or improvements on their property following completion of the repair project.

Board president Russell Elliott explained that construction will differ at each point in roadbed repair so a description of any one section would be difficult. He maintained, however, that the work essentially will involve a "three to one slope" referring to elevation of the roadbed between Uman Ave. and Union St.

Speaking for the board, Elliott said that the intent had never been to withhold information on the repair project and that detailed maps and construction specifications will be made available immediately to the Echo.

A meeting was set for Tuesday with this reporter and Donna Murray, beach road project engineer, to discuss details of the program, which will be published in a subsequent issue of the Echo.

Fire Destroys Local Oil Company Plant

Oil Fire Is Second Big One In Bay History

By Marileen Maher
Echo News Editor

For many Bay St. Louis residents, last Thursday's fire at the local Shell Oil storage plant brought to mind another big fire when the Standard Oil Company's local depot was destroyed in 1918. Most of those who are too young to remember have at least heard about the fire from those who were there.

In the August 5, 1918 issue of The Sea Coast Echo, a story appeared detailing the account of the fire and its probable cause. It seems as though one Joe Smith was in the depot, located "alongside L&N-R.R. Co's tracks in this city, between the coal shutes and the W. A. McDonald place of business" when a fire broke out in the main building. Smith later recounted that he was groping around in the dark in the depot and he "struck a match to see his way." The fire followed Smith's dubious action. It was later learned that Smith had been stealing the contents of the tank and selling it on the outside.

"During the fire, Smith

"volunteered" to help put out the fire and as a result, his leg was severely burned. The newspaper report said that the intense heat caused the tops of two tanks to open, thus allowing the gas and air to escape while the oil from a delivery truck continued to feed the fire.

However, there is another story that Smith was forced to open the top of the tanks because he had apparently started the fire. The tanks were adjacent to the burning building.

The blaze from the fire was obviously splendid as an eyewitness described, "The fire was unlike anything seen here, spectacular, and, like all conflagrations, fascinating with enough of the element of danger to make it all the more interesting. At one time the flames, fed by escaping gas, shot upward to a height it would be hard to accurately estimate. However, the flame was of sufficient height to please the most imaginative and of a brilliancy that lit up the bay and Henderson Pt. and other parts of the surrounding territory for a few moments with a splendor the like of which is perhaps seldom witnessed."

Loss to Standard Oil was not completely estimated at the time the story was written but the building that was destroyed was assessed for $1,000. The story also commends the work of the fire department with its new gasoline fire engine and the company of volunteers.

The story ends merely, "Joe Smith was locked up in the county jail last evening."

Shell Oil Co. plant on Necaise and Union streets, and threatened adjacent residences and lives.

An explosion in a gasoline transport truck early Thursday morning ignited the warehouse in which was stored several thousand gallons of volatile fuel. The truck was unloading gasoline into storage tanks behind the warehouse and the driver, Donald Van Norman, said he suddenly realized the truck engine was "revving" up too fast. As he approached the cab to turn it off, he saw a stream of gasoline running beneath the axle.

At that point, Van Norman said the first tank on the truck exploded, surrounding him with flames. His clothing caught fire, Van Norman rolled on the ground to extinguish the flames then ran into the oil company office for

Mayor Thanks Firemen

Mayor Warren Carver, Bay St. Louis, has issued the following statement concerning the major fire Thursday at the Shell Oil plant here:

"I would be ungrateful as mayor of this community if I failed to publicly thank each and every man who took part in so effectively bringing under control last Thursday's disastrous fire at Gehin's Shell bulk distribution plant.

"Without regard for personal safety, these men performed truly heroic work. I certainly shudder when I think of what would have happened if those storage tanks had exploded spewing burning gasoline and instant horrible death to all of those persons in the immediate area."

Carver also stated that letters of appreciation had been sent to the mayors and fire chiefs of Waveland, Pass Christian, Long Beach, and Gulfport as well as to the proper officers at NASA's Mississippi Test Facility, Keesler Air Force Base, and East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department.

help. Alvin Genin, distributor for Shell Oil Co. was in the building when the first explosion occurred. When he realized what had happened Genin called the fire department.

A second explosion tipped over the rear tank on the truck, knocking a neighbor out of his bed, and igniting the warehouse. A school boy riding a bicycle in front of the building said the explosion threw him off his bike and across the street. Van Norman received second and third degree burns on 25 percent of his body. He was taken to Hancock General Hospital by city commissioner William Frisbie who arrived on the scene shortly after the explosion, with commissioner Andre Aroseaux.

Within minutes the truck and building were a raging inferno as Bay St. Louis firemen attempted to control the blaze and keep it from spreading. Fire fighting units from NASA, Waveland, Pass Christian, Long Beach, East Hancock, Gulfport and Keesler Field responded to the call for help and fought the blaze for two hours.

When the fire started, children were arriving for school at St. Rose de Lima School, next to the warehouse. School principal St. James quickly and quietly marshaled the children into the school cafeteria and notified parents to take the young charges back home.

Regular firemen and volunteers were supported by numerous onlookers, many of whom stayed until the fire was finally extinguished by chemical foam from the specially equipped Keeler unit. Bay St. Louis fire chief Floyd Page expressed gratitude to those who helped and in particular to the seven other fire units for their response. Page said, "Without them, we couldn't have possibly handled this fire...it would have destroyed everything in this part of town."

DAIRY NOTES

You cannot get high milk production out of cows that are not bred for high production. One of the greatest opportunities for Mississippi dairymen is to breed all their dairy cows and heifers to plus proven artificial insemination bulls. This should improve the milk making capacity of the offspring.

SOYBEANS IN 1972

It looks like 1972 will be a good year to increase soybean production. Total soybean production has not kept pace with total use and we have been dipping steadily into our reserves. Demand continues good and prices should remain favorable.

Six Area Counties Plan Veterans Assistance Day

Below is a letter from Mike Ladner, First District Commander of the VFW asking cooperation in the upcoming Veterans Assistance Day:

All Post Commanders and Members of the 1st District

Dear Comrades:

December 6, 1971, will be Veterans Assistance Day in the six county area composed of Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, George, Stone and Pearl River counties.

The Joe Graham Post of the American Legion has generously agreed to make their facilities available on that day for the assistance center. This location near U.S. Highway 90 and Courthouse Road in Gulfport should be reasonably accessible to veterans throughout the six county area.

The center will be manned from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. by representatives of the Veterans Administration, Mississippi State Employment Service, Federal Civil Service, Veterans Farm Home Loan Board and other state and federal agencies and business related groups.

The primary emphasis of this program is obtaining jobs for veterans. The Chambers of Commerce and other business groups working with the Mississippi State Employment Service will seek to have as many jobs as possible listed for that day. The same will be true of the Civil Service. Many of the veterans who come to the Post seeking a job will leave with a definite referral.

While the objective of this program is obtaining jobs for veterans, assistance in all other programs related to veterans, their widows or dependents such as compensations, pensions, medical benefits, insurance, etc., will be available. Certificates of eligibility for home or mobile home loans will be issued on the spot to eligible veterans and in addition, representatives of the various lending and real estate groups will be on hand for consultation.

This program can be of great help to all veterans in this area who need assistance or who are not informed about what benefits they do have. It should be of particular interest to the young veterans who are now seeking their place in the civilian economy.

To be successful, the veteran must know of the program and be encouraged to participate. In this regard you as Post Commanders can be particularly helpful and by this letter your earnest and wholehearted enthusiastic support of the entire program is requested. Further, broadest possible notice of the occasion in your meetings, through your publications and by word of mouth is requested.

Yours in comradeship,

MIKE LADNER
1st District Commander

TO THE TAXPAYERS OF BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS.

Dear Tax Payers: How much more of this Administration can one take? Seems like the city limits of Bay St. Louis has stretched out to the County. First, the City Fathers hired an assistant Fire Chief who lives in Bay Side Park not in the city limits. Second, the City Fathers hired a Waveland resident to the Fire Dept. and to operate the Radio. Third, a man was hired as Civil Defense Director. Who is this man and what can he offer? Fourth, check the City Payroll all the strange names, not heard of before. Camille, Fifth, I'm sure the City Fathers are well aware of the County Election, as a whole new Administration taking office Jan. 1st. We thank goodness the time is getting near for this Election.

Yours truly, Gloria Hansen

(The following letter is printed verbatim by request of the writer.)

Dear Editor: On behalf of my friends who believe in truth and honesty. And my enemies who have no regard for either, as most of you know due to the unpardonable negligence of Mayor Carver, the fact that Harris Boudroux purged himself along with the willful unscrupulous harassment of Michael Hiss, plus the cover up tactics of Bob Goodsel, I was convicted of lying on policeman Ellis.

Contrary to last weeks paper.

At no time did I say I saw two men. At no time did I say I saw Ellis. At no time did I say I saw Ellis put city gas in his car.

I did state I saw a city gas tank attendant putting gas in a car later identified by Mayor Carver as Ellis's. I did state I heard 2 voices which hushed after the city gas tank hose was removed from this car in question, and apparently the two men left in the police car which was parked immediately behind the private car.

The peculiar part of the whole incident was that no one knew the date of the accusation. Thinking that I was only a witness I felt sure it was the Mayor's duty to make notes, but he didn't.

They agreed that it could have been "EITHER" Thursday July 22 or Thursday July 23.

According to Boudroux's statement Ellis' car was at his house with flat tires on both of these Thursdays, and at no time near the police station.

Contrary to that statement, on the Monday following the accusation Ellis' mother called my wife and swore that her son picked up his car at the police station after work at 11:00 p.m. on the night in question and used it to take an unidentified person to a doctor in Harrison County.

Now it looks like Mamma Ellis is calling two policemen a liar.

Aside from the issue at hand, and since this is my "LAST" time to crusade for justice, I feel that the following should be made public.

Hass tried to down grade my character by asking why I didn't get any of the city school milk business.

More than ten years ago over a question of right or wrong, our school supt. sat on his porch and told me he was the least interested in legal transactions if it didn't best benefit him.

When a two year old school pick up truck was offered for sale and some figures given in regard to the new school in Waveland which I questioned, not only was my job threatened by the same supt., the president of the board of trustees commented that I would never get any more school business as long as he had say so.

Well fellows the business belongs to two of my sons now, and they believe in democracy to. Please don't deprive them of it.

DEMOCRACY??? The birth right, privilege, duty, and obligation to criticize as well as uphold all branches of government "AND" government heads.

Earl Lizana 307 Carroll Ave. P.S. One of these 2 boys went all the way to Vietnam to fight for this democracy.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling
City-County Library Writer

Deep in the jungles of Cambodia early explorers suddenly came upon the ruins of an ancient temple of dozens of pagodas, spires and statues, a monument to forgotten days.

One has something of the same feeling of discovery when, driving down a quiet street in Bay St. Louis he comes unexpectedly on a large, two-story building, half-hidden in a pretty park-like area full of vines and shrubbery, and looking almost as lonely and deserted as the old temple.

It is not quite that old, and it is still functional to a degree, but it is nevertheless a monument to the past, for it carries the memories of a time when the railroad was the heart and center of daily life in the little village by the bay. It is the old railroad station which for half a lifetime was the stopping place of trains which tied together the communities of the Gulf Coast.

Today it stands silent and almost deserted except for a small freightroom at one end where Stanley H. Yarborough, freight agent, checks the boxes, barrels and packages that come and go on the few trains left running on the old L&N railroad.

There are ten of these daily, all of them freight trains. Eight of them clutter past the old station with only a hoot and a swirl of dust. Two of them pause briefly while Mr. Yarborough unloads freight from the city or puts aboard the outgoing parcels.

Things were livelier in the old days, according to the freight agent. As far back as 1930 there were twenty-four passenger trains daily, besides a goodly number of freight, and in the middle forties as many as fifty two passenger trains passed the new and bustling station, many of them filled with troops on their way to or from camps along the coast. How so many trains, plus a dozen or so long freight trains, were able to get by each other and maintain something of a schedule on the single pair of rails along the coast, was not explained by Mr. Yarborough, though he did point out that on the second floor of the station were quartered the division engineer and half a dozen assistants who manned the telephones and telegraph keys whose operations guided the trains on their way.

The old station must have been a bustling place in those days. A dozen or more railroad cars made it their headquarters. Trucks and automobiles were constantly pulling up to its door, scores of passengers were leaving or boarding the trains at all hours, and the two large waiting rooms were crowded with passengers. In addition, two water towers, a large roundhouse and a turntable adjoined the station, traces of which are still to be seen. From 1870 until the decline of passenger traffic recently the railroad station probably was the busiest place in town, well remembered by the old-timers who rode the Mary Jane and other popular commuter trains to New Orleans.

Today peace and a vast quiet reign in the little park-like plaza at the station. The rails shine in the sunlight, the waiting rooms are locked, and the engineers' offices are silent and dusty. Occasionally the quiet is shattered as a long freight hoofs past the crossings rounding the bend out of the woods and clattering past. But peace and quiet soon return, and the old station sleeps on, undisturbed by the feeble clacking of the telegraph instrument or the tinkle of the phone in Mr. Yarborough's office.

LOAN GRANTED The Rural Electrification Administration advised Cong. Wm. M. Colmer today of the approval of a $1,405,000 loan to the Coast Electric Power Association in Bay St. Louis. The funds will be used to finance 100 miles of distribution lines to serve 1400 new consumers, two miles of 115-kilovolt transmission lines and related facilities, and extensive system improvements including six miles of new line and conversion of 107 miles of existing line to a higher capacity. In addition, two new substations will be installed and new branch office facilities will be constructed in Harrison County.

ENCUMBRANCE Men who leave today's work unfinished are actually putting a mortgage on tomorrow.

Commission Will Ask Reimbursement From EDA

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission requested approval from county supervisors Monday to submit a claims docket in excess of $110,000 to the Economic Development Administration for reimbursement of Port and Harbor expansion projects.

A major item on the docket was a payment of $54,260 to Mike Hooks, Inc. for dredging and land fill work on the Port Bienville channel. Another $27,376 was requested for William Smith Construction Co., covering work in progress on the industrial area railroad spur.

Invoices totaling $12,710 for office and field engineering services were listed for Fromherz Engineers, consulting engineers for the Port Bienville $4.6 million EDA public works project.

The balance of $5,554 was requested for Chatham Testing and Inspection Co. for services in connection with the Bienville Shortline Railroad inspection and certification.

Supervisors ratified a motion to name J. W. Puckett, Inc. of Gulfport prime contractor for the construction of an elevated water tank foundation and booster pump station in the industrial area. Puckett's bid of $44,900 was the lowest in a field of ten companies bidding. The bid opening was staged Nov. 18 at the Port and Harbor offices on U. S. 90.

In other business, a letter was submitted from the state department of public roads, authorizing supervisors to grant beach road easement rights to the city of Waveland, necessary for the installation of that city's sewer system.

A decision to transfer Governor's Emergency Council funds from a central account to individual beat accounts came after Elliott announced a request from GEC officials for a specific accounting of GEC fund expenditures. Beat two supervisor Alton Keller made the initial request for a transfer of 25 percent of the $50,000 GEC fund to his beat Road and Bridge account. A motion was passed authorizing the transfer, as well as a second motion to comply with the initial request by the GEC agency.

Board attorney Joseph Benvenuti presented a bill for $3,600 covering court costs and attorney's fees for 27 easement suits, 17 of which were in conjunction with proposed beach road repair. The bill was unanimously approved for payment by the board, although Benvenuti was admonished that actual reimbursement would be delayed.

Board president Russell Elliott, referring to complaints by citizens of a lack of signs at the new sanitary land fill, asked the board to authorize the acquisition of three signs to post at the highway turn-off as well as entrance to the dump. He also announced that the superintendent stationed at Jackson Ridge, now closed for public use, has issued three citations for illegal dumping.

Supervisors rejected a request from the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for exception from liability for any "incident of a hazardous nature" occurring at the point of easement of the Bienville Shortline Railroad, now under construction by the Port and Harbor. Board attorney Benvenuti said he interpreted the request from the railroad company to be of a permanent nature, rather than temporarily during construction of the spur.

Thursday--A Busy Day For Firemen

The Bay St. Louis fire department was sorely pressed Thursday as firemen worked literally from early morning until after midnight battling two major fires as well as repeated outbreaks of both in late evening.

The first conflagration which destroyed the Shell Oil plant in the center of town, burned for two hours before being extinguished, leaving the large two-story building and transport truck a melted pile of smoldering rubble.

In early evening the same day, fire broke out in a residence at 222 Keller St., only a few blocks away from the bulk oil plant. Fire department units from Waveland, Pass Christian and East Hancock responded again to a call for help.

The fire was extinguished in about 40 minutes, leaving the frame house completely gutted. The house is owned by Richard Ferry, who had just completely renovated the structure. Ferry was attempting to move his family into the house before he left for Vietnam.

Bay St. Louis assistant fire chief Edward Friloux made a complete investigation of both fires and has submitted a report to the state fire marshal in Jackson.

Regarding the cause of the Shell Oil Co. fire, Friloux said, "It's possible that it started from a leak, the origin of which is still under investigation. All physical evidence, photographs and eye witness statements of both fires must be evaluated by the state fire marshal before any statement of cause can be made."

When questioned as to why he was not at the first fire until it was almost over, Friloux said, "Because of a break-down in the fire department communications, I was not notified as I am supposed to be."

THURSDAY WAS the day for fires as local and area firemen battle a blaze Thursday night at 222 Keller St. Early Thursday morning, a fire completely destroyed the Shell Oil Co. plant on Necaise Ave.

Church Plans Memorial Concert Sunday

A sacred concert will be given this Sunday from 3 to 4 p.m. at the Main St. United Methodist Church in memory of Dr. Alvah P. Smith and Leo W. Seal, Sr.

FALL MUSICAL

The youth of the First Missionary Baptist Church, Sycamore and Third Street, are sponsoring a "Fall Musical Extravaganza" this Sunday at 2 p.m. Youth along the Gulf Coast and other surrounding areas will participate. Rev. Lawrence Collins, Sr., is the pastor and Alfriza Acker is coordinator.

The organist, Bill Fagan of New Orleans, has long time association in Bay St. Louis. His mother, the former Miss Aline Hanson, lived here many years in the home of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Harrison and Dr. and Mrs. A.P. Smith, and he is a cousin of Mrs. Laurent Kergosien. Mr. Fagan is presently organist at historic St. John the Baptist Catholic Church in New Orleans, and Joe Macaluso, vocalist for Sunday afternoon, is soloist at the same church. The latter had served as Choir Director for eight years at St. Francis de Sales Church and for six years at St. Henry's. For some time Mr. Fagan had wanted to give a concert here to express the gratitude and love of his family for Bay St. Louis and it seems particularly appropriate at the Thanksgiving season. The two musicians speak of themselves as non-professionals and neither has received any formal music training. However from an early age, they both loved music and their natural ability was recognized.

9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road.

That should tell you a lot about the cars we sell.

Whether you own a big or small car, pay a little or a lot, the one thing you don't need from a car is trouble. You want a car that will hold up. A car that's built to last.

Well, we're with you. Just look at this figure: 9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road. This includes all the various owners, any kind of terrain, and numbers of miles. But every Chrysler is designed and built the way you want it to last. So even if you won't be keeping a car for years and years, it's good to know you've got all that quality going for you in your first year as well as in later years.

You gotta have heart. The quality of a Chrysler starts deep down in the heart of the car. That's where you've gotta have it. That's where you get it. With such time- and road-proven features as Chrysler's torsion-bar suspension and Torque-Flite automatic transmission. The right strength of unit-body construction. And a 7-step dip-and-spray anti-rust process. Extra care like that is why so many Chryslers stay in great shape.

Every Chrysler Imperial is road-tested at the factory. If our cars aren't right, we don't want you to have them. For example, every Imperial is put through a road test at the factory that includes over 100 different checks before it reaches you. This year every Chrysler car offers a new optional electronic ignition system that does away with the points and condenser that can wear out. This helps keep the engine tuned longer. And a tuned engine means cleaner exhaust. From our lowest-priced Chrysler, Royal to our big, luxurious Imperial, Chrysler cars are built to last. The same is true of every Chrysler-engineered car we sell - Valiant, Duster, Oriole, Satellite and Fury. We think that's the kind of car America wants. That's the kind of car we'd like to show you. Come see us today.

Coming through with the kind of car America wants.

Miss McDonald Weds Mr. Ryan

Mr. and Mrs. David N. McDonald of Bay St. Louis announce the marriage of their daughter Marilyn to Mr. Patrick J. Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ryan of this city. The couple were wed in a civil ceremony in Alabama on November 18. The young couple repeated their vows at a simple ceremony Saturday afternoon, November 20, at Our Lady of the Gulf Church in Bay St. Louis. The service was conducted by Very Reverend Gregory Johnson, Pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf, assisted by Reverend Bernard Walton, Pastor of Main Street United Methodist Church. Serving as attendants were Miss Wendy McDonald, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Michael Ryan, brother of the bridegroom.

The newly married couple, both of whom are students at Jefferson Davis Junior College, will be at home at Apartment C, 308 Carroll Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

Out-of-town guests for the ceremony were Mrs. Sylvia Smith, grandmother of the bride, from Wiggins, Mississippi and Mrs. Eleanor Davis, Mrs. Carl Smith, and Miss Shelby Davis, also relatives of the bride, from Wiggins.

Police Urge Marking Of Property

Residents of Hancock County can now mark all of their personal belongings for the purpose of identification in the event of a burglary.

The identification kits have been donated by the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club and are available at the three law enforcement offices—Bay St. Louis and Waveland police departments and the Hancock County Sheriff's office.

Similar to the project begun recently in New Orleans, any citizen may check out a kit from the police, mark the property and make a list of all personal belongings. The owner then keeps a list for himself and gives one to the police. In the event of a burglary, all stolen goods, if found, can be easily identified.

Gus Uram, chairman of this Rotary project and vice-president of the organization, hopes that everyone will take advantage of the identification kits. "Often, police recover stolen goods but are not sure of the owner," Uram commented. "Another feature is the fact that by using this method, people will know exactly what they own and if there is a burglary, exactly what was stolen," he concluded.

POLICE REPORTS

Three people, two of them children, narrowly escaped death Saturday morning when an automobile and a freight train collided at the Nicholson Ave. railroad crossing.

The train was running to New Orleans and the automobile, driven by Mrs. Ollie Tenney of Waveland, was proceeding toward the beach on Nicholson Ave. In a later statement to police, J.P. Stringer, train engineer, said he saw the car approaching the tracks but it appeared to be stopped. Stringer said he blew the train whistle and swept the warning light across the tracks as the train was running at about 40 miles per hour.

As the train entered the crossing the automobile started across the tracks. The impact of the collision spun the car around, driving it into the deep gully at the side of the crossing. Mrs. Tenney and the children were taken to Hancock General Hospital where the children were treated for minor injuries. Mrs. Tenney told police she didn't hear the train whistle.

BRIDGE WINNERS

Winners of games played Monday night at Gulf National Bank by Bay-Waveland Bridge Club members were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Pierce, first; Mrs. T.J. Garner and Mrs. Royce Williams and T.J. Garner and Mrs. Viva Smith tied for second and third place.

Karate -- Ancient Art Of Self-Defense

(Story And Photos by Adoree Shorley)

"As a mirror's polished surface reflects what stands before it, the valley carries even small sounds, so must the karate student render his mind of selfishness and worldly effort to react toward anything but the encounter. This is the meaning of karate."

This interpretation of the ancient martial art, taken from the Zen Buddhist philosophy, was proffered by the modern master, Funakoshi Gichin, who died in 1957 at the age of 88. To Funakoshi, karate was a martial art, but it was also a means of personal character.

Karate reputedly dates back 5,000 years when an Indian prince first developed the art of weaponless self-defense by observing animals and through experiments on slaves. Many years later, karate was refined by Bodhidharma, a Buddhist monk in China, who taught his students physical training methods to build endurance and strength, in order to carry out the right discipline that was part of their religion. Since monks were not allowed to carry weapons, they were also in need of a means of defense against predators.

Karate literally means "empty hand" and the principle involved is to employ the hands and feet as weapons against attack. The karateka, or student of the art, is taught never to use karate aggressively, as the various blows, properly dealt, can at the least, cause temporary paralysis. At the most, death.

Funakoshi first introduced karate to the public in 1922 and established the Shotokan, a motto for karate students, in 1936. The study of karate spread rapidly thereafter throughout the world, and today there are a number of clubs in the United States, most affiliated with the National Karate Association. Several weeks ago, karate was introduced in Bay St. Louis by a young man, Patrick Ryan, who had first learned the martial art in Washington, D.C. Ryan, in conjunction with Tom Tebbe, a novice at St. Augustine Seminary, started a karate-judo club offering instruction in both arts open to all residents of the area. The fees for membership are as modest as possible to make participation available to as many as possible.

Both instructors are second degree brown belts and have achieved a high degree of proficiency in their respective arts. Ryan learned karate as first a student, then an instructor at the Federal Bureau of Investigation's training school in Washington. Tebbe studied judo at college in St. Louis.

Of the approximately 30 students in Ryan's afternoon and evening classes, 10 recently were promoted to eighth degree white belt. Still a long way from the coveted black belt status, the students are nevertheless working assiduously to attain the next degree.

The atmosphere in the dojo, or classroom, is marked by an aura of concentration and strict attention to the instructor. Classes begin and end with a formal bow as the instructor addresses his students in Japanese. Exercises and positions are conducted in silence broken only by Ryan's comments and directions, usually in Japanese.

The most significant aspect of the unique class is that while he is teaching the martial art, Ryan is also learning self-discipline, as valuable today as it was 5,000 years ago.

RYAN LEAPS high into the air as he demonstrates the way to break a board (or an enemy's neck) with a karate kick. The attack is swift and the body, on landing, is perfectly balanced.

A DOUBLE THRUST and side snap kick, performed by Ryan with lightning speed, illustrate the lethal possibilities of karate. Students must learn the 44 pressure points of the human body and exactly what effect each blow will have on an adversary, BEFORE he is taught to execute the blow.

Adoree Shortle)

PROFICIENCY in the prescribed series of movements, is required for a student to advance to a higher degree. Bay St. Louis karate club instructor Pat Ryan demonstrates proper stance and position in the Heian-nidan kata to those of his students who are working toward seventh degree white belt.

A COMMAND OF REI, and a low bow from the waist, signal the beginning of a formal session in the Bay St. Louis karate class.

KARATEKAS listen attentively as the instructor explains the importance of perfect stance and position in every karate movement.

AND SAVE EVERY DAY!

By L. S. (Doc) Elliott

The chill in the air over the past weekend made everything perfect for fishing and the opening of the second part of the dove season on Saturday, Nov. 20th. You can bet plenty of dove hunters were in the fields and doves were killed most everywhere. Not like the old days when fields were open to all hunters. Now one has to be a member of some group who lease a field for their own hunting or who is lucky enough to have a friend who owns a field. Things do change, don't they?

Sportsmen will be pretty busy from now on, dove hunting, duck hunting, rabbit, squirrel hunting and deer hunting which seasons will open soon. Hancock County has all this kind of hunting and if you don't hunt, you can still go fishing. Both fresh and salt water fish are being caught. No reason for staying home.

On the fishing side, Hoke Ogden and Johnny Legendre have been getting their share of speckle trout every time out. Both are experienced fishermen.

Nolan Ladner has reported some nice catches of bass and perch. Nolan is a fly fisherman and trolls for speckles.

Mr. Louis Moreaux does most any kind of fishing and loves it. Like others he says he is too busy to go now.

Manny Schwartz is another fisherman who enjoys catching fish. Manny has been getting his share lately.

Mel Villere, David Garcia and Jerry Boase made a trip to the marshes. They returned with boque speckles and red fish. They know how to catch them. Have fished the marsh for years.

J.C. Strong of Tangipahoa and Billy Seachrist of Jackson (on vacation) got 127 speckles and red fish over some flounders. They went for three days. Billy catches fresh water fish around Jackson, mostly in the Ross Barnett Reservoir.

Ernie Zimmerman, grandson of Harold Zimmerman with Fred Bourgoin caught a 2 1/2 lb. red fish with some big speckles. Some weighed five pounds. A good catch we'll say.

Glad to report that Joe Taconi is out of the hospital after a short stay. Doctor said he has to lay off throwing that cast net for mullets for a while. Kinder tough, eh Joe?

Ed (son) Nelson and brother Andrew Nelson with John Siglet made a real catch of reds and speckles one day last week at Red Fish Bayou. They were biting like no body's business, son said.

Vic Schwartz, another of our local sports, does both fishing and hunting. As far as fishing goes, he prefers catching bass and perch the old way on a perch pole with earth worms, etc. Has been catching plenty lately.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gaudreaux do mostly salt water fishing. They are old timers at the game and go on every occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Villarrubia spent their honeymoon at the Bay last week. They were married last Friday. They caught flounders, etc., but Stanley said his best catch was his wife, Iris. Happy fishing folks.

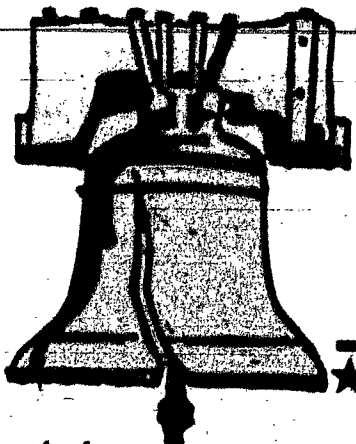

John Cannella and Vincent Cuchella have been catching plenty specks and flounders lately, as they put it. They are from New Orleans, and have summer homes in Waveland.

Yes, there are dirty plays, but not one has even approached the performance record of homey "Oklahoma" or "Fiddler on the Roof"

Foreigners are scornful of our ghettos. Yet tens of millions are being spent by businesses to rebuild slums with modern homes, and the median Negro family income has risen to $5360 a year and the number earning $7000 has doubled in ten years.

45 percent of Americans attend church and 70 percent consider religion very important.

More Americans finish high school than is true of any other nation, and we're getting ready to improve that even more by special programs (developed in America) for pre-school children. And the number of American adults who continue their schooling even into old age is the wonder of the world.

Book buying has doubled in 10 years - good books.

50 million Americans donate time and 14 billion dollars every year to charity.

And you can add paragraphs of what else is good from your own experience.

All of which makes a pretty good national anthem, doesn't it - a lot healthier than the sorry blues which too many love to sing.
